TRICON DOUBLE DEGREE

Having degrees from two international universities guarantees that you will stand out in a global job market and get the attention of your dream employer. We offer you the opportunity to take part in the new double degree program between KLU and Tongji University. Furthermore, you can take advantage of the strengths of both universities and expand your professional and methodological horizons. All of these aspects together may just give you the competitive edge you need for the international job market.

In order to obtain a double degree diploma, students are required to study and pass some extra courses like a Chinese language course in their second semester at Tongji University.

In addition, students need to write a second master’s thesis in collaboration with the partner university. The topic and the supervisor need to be decided on during the second semester while staying on Tongji campus. The timeline for writing the second master’s thesis will be scheduled after the KLU master’s thesis submission. Students are advised to plan in some extra time, but may write their thesis off Tongji campus.

The decision whether or not to complete the double degree is not required at the application stage, but needs to be made in the first semester.

“As an American looking to pursue a career in Germany, I chose this double degree program because it offers the education and connections necessary to make my dream happen. By completing a master’s thesis, I was able to synthesize my two years of global supply chain learnings into one piece of work I am proud of. This degree is so unique because of the truly international nature of the program – beginning and ending in Germany really helped round out the experience. It allowed me to take pause and reminisce on the student and individual I had been at the beginning of the program.”

"¡Hola! My name is Elisabet Vásquez. I am from the Dominican Republic, and I am currently enrolled in the unique TriCon program. In this life-changing master's program we get to learn from the best and face current real world global challenges in different industries' supply chains and logistics alongside an internationally diverse team.
